

Protect Your New Basement... with a Zoeller battery backup system

So, you just spent thousands of dollars and months finishing your new basement. You love the new space you added to your house whether it's for entertaining, new movie theater, or a place to just get away.

WAIT A SECOND!! You didn't get a battery backup pump system to protect this investment you spent time and money completing over the past several months. You are probably thinking – that storm won't hit our house, that power outage won't happen, we don't need to worry about protecting this new investment. Yes, you have insurance and it will most likely cover any damage but do you want to go through getting a brand new basement redone when you could have protected it for not much more than what your deductible will be to replace everything you just got done finishing.

Zoeller has the Aquanot® Fit 508 battery backup system that will work with the primary pump (hopefully a Zoeller) you already have installed. It is an economical option for homeowners that provides dependable protection and peace of mind from basement flooding.

The system has Wi-Fi connectivity and includes self-testing technology, so the system is always ready. This is a big deal – you want to know that your battery backup system is ready when you need it and hasn't been sitting dormant for months. The system allows users to receive alerts and remotely connect to the system to test, silence, and configure its use. The system automatically charges the battery and provides a low battery indicator and alarm.

So, what are you waiting for, get an Aquanot® Fit 508 and protect your investment.
